The Art and Historical Collections are a group of villages linked for its unique features, in general, reflecting the landscape, geography and history of the region where they are and, worldwide, the heritage of Castilla and León. Their high level and characteristics of cultural and tourist interests are a consequence of their presence in the regional territory.

The knowledge of regional areas is an important aspect of forgotten history and the promotion and use of them can be done to enhance the integral and sustainable development of rural regions. Therefore, this work is the study of these villages due to the potential importance for regional economic development as a punishment for neglect by policy makers and migration and its consequences have been on the verge of depopulation of many rural areas.

I hope to demonstrate the possibilities of Historic those to stop and even reverse the process that put the world on regional rural unfortunate and painful situation where you are. As I say at work, the right conditions to promote sustainable global development and, if promoted and use of cultural tourism and the important and varied tourism resources at its disposal the right way, the rational and common sense.
